

All University Advisers Committee

Purpose:

The All University Advisers Committee provides cooperative learning opportunities for M.S.U. academic staff and faculty who advise undergraduate students. The in-services have traditionally focused on practical and theoretical advising models that emphasize the academic, personal, social and technical needs of students.

Committee:

The All University Advisers Committee is composed of representatives across academic units who are professional advisers and faculty who advise undergraduate students.

Professional development programs:

The committee develops and plans a standalone series for both academic semesters as well as an annual conference typically offered early in Spring Semester. In-services vary to maintain accurate and current dissemination of information. Professional development programs have included:

- Academic standing of undergraduate students
- Admissions
- Career development/Assessments
- Civic Engagement and Service Learning
- Curriculum reviews
- Enrollment services information
- Global opportunities in learning: Study Abroad
- Honors College
- International students
- Learning and studying strategies
- Mental Health Services for college students
- NACADA sponsored programs
- On-campus referral services
- Registrar Updates
- Residence Life
- Special Populations
- Student Athlete Support Services
- Technology: tools to improve the advising process
- Undergraduate Education Updates

Range and frequency:

Professional development programs are made available during the academic year. In-services are typically scheduled in two hour increments throughout the week and at various times. Spring conferences and other university sponsored programs are also offered.
